2200-GIS

Geographic Information System

GIS technology provides a tool for effective trust asset management and has been used since 1984. Sites, linear features and boundaries are represented by points, lines and polygons that have spatial coordinates, names and other descriptive attributes. The data is organized by category or layer (e.g. hydrography, transportation, reservation boundaries). Each layer of data represents the best available information. Most layers cover Indian lands in Alaska and the contiguous US. Data is updated as new information becomes available.

Files are generally stored by reservation in directories that are further organized by BIA region.

2. Source Records (Electronic): Electronic files or records used to create or update a master file, including, but not limited to, work files, valid transaction files, and intermediate input/output records. (GRS-20/1b)
